

Governor Information

Information about every member of the governing body (including associate members) is required on schools' websites from 1 September 2015, per the DfE's 'Statutory guidance for governing bodies of maintained schools and local authorities in England'.

The governing body code of conduct should make it clear that it is a legal requirement for this information to be published. Any governor who fails to reveal the above information, and therefore prevents the governing body from fulfilling its responsibilities, may be considered to be in breach of the code of conduct and consequently regarded as bringing the governing body into disrepute. In such cases, suspension of the governor should be considered.
